Twenty Poems from Pawtracks

by
Tim McNulty

ISBN 978-1-929355-46-4 * 32 pages * $8

Empty Bowl is pleased to announce the reissue of an award-winning Northwest poet and nature writer's first book of poems on the 30th anniversary of its publication

Tim McNulty's Pawtracks established him as a fresh voice for the power and beauty of Northwest landscapes. Long out of print, twenty poems that represent the core of that collection are reissued with a preface by the poet. Intimate and wide-ranging, these poems "of love, friendship, work, and solitude" are set within the larger context of the natural world.

About the author: Tim McNulty is a poet, essayist and nature writer. He is the author of two collections of poetry, including In Blue Mountain Dusk (available from Pleasure Boat Studio, and seven poetry chapbooks, including Through High Still Air (Pleasure Boat Studio), as well as ten books on natural history. He lives with his family in the foothills of Washington's Olympic Mountains.
